BIBLIOGRAPHY

1 A. Adeyemo*, A. O. Ogunleye, C. O. Oke and S. O. Adenle (2009)A survey of factors determining the employability of science and technology graduates of polytechnics and universities in the Nigerian labour markets

2 Akoka-Yaba, Lagos, Lagos State, Nigeria.International Education Studies(May 2010) Vol. 3, No. 2Department of Science and Technology Education, University of Lagos,

3 A. A Afonja K. Sraku-LarteyS. (2005) Working Paper No. 42 Engineering Education for Industrial Development pages 55-60

4 Alberta, Suite 208*Edmonton*, CanadaT5E 4A8 (2008) Curriculum for Pre-employment Training for Community Development Practitioners pages 26-97

5 Anyadike Nkechi, Emeh Ikechukwu EJ and Ukah Finian Okechukwu) (2012) Entrepreneurship development and employment generation in Nigeria: Problems and prospects pages12-35

6 Ann Pegg, Jeff Waldock, Sonia Hendy-Isaac, Ruth Lawton (2008) Pedagogy for employability Authors pages 9-12

7 Angela Maher and Sarah Graves Oxford Brookes Industry Oxford united kingdom (2006) Making student more employable : can higher education deliver pages 26 -50

8 A. Cyril Awogbenle1* and K. Chijioke Iwuamadi2 (2009) Youth unemployment: Entrepreneurship development program me as an intervention mechanism pages 84 -95

9 Bettye P. Smith –(2010) University of Georgia Employability Standards: Inclusion in Family and Consumer Science MiddleSchool Curriculum Vol. 4(6), pp. 831-835

10 Brownwith Lee Harvey - Tamsin Bowers(2006) Are there too many graduates in the UK?

A literature review and analysis of graduate employability 320-400

11 Christy Collis Queensland University of Technology, Brisbane, Australia Journal of Education copyright(2006)Developing Work-integrated Learning Curricula for the Creative Industries: embedding stakeholder perspective EASA Vol 26(1)113–128

12 Dr Dely Elliot and Jon Lewin (2004) Report written by Kevin Lowden, Stuart Hall, pages55-70

13 Eva Dias de Oliveira, Miguel Sottomayor, Ana Meireles and Ana Martins (2010) Building up undergraduate skills- empirical evidence from a Portuguese university pages 66-70

14 Eva Dias de Oliveira, faculty of economic and management, catholic university of Portugal Isabel Castro Guimaraes (2010) Employability through competencies and curricular innovation : a portuguese account pages 33-78

15 Gaby Atfield and Kate Purcell ,Institute for Employment Research, University of Warwick (2010) The fit between graduate labour market supply and demand: 3rd year UK undergraduate degree final year students' perceptions of the skills they have to offer and the skills employers seek pages 70 -100

16 Geoff Mason ,Gareth Williams ,Sue Cranmer (2003) Employability Skills Initiatives in Higher Education: What Effects Do They Have On Graduate Labour Market Outcomes? Pages 44-50

17 Gillian Maxwell, Bernadette Scott, Dorothy Macfarlane and Elizabeth Williamson, (May 2009)Employers as a stakeholder in postgraduate employability skill development pages90-100

18 Godwin-Charles A. Ogbeide (2006) Employability skills and students' self-perceived Competence for carrier in the hospitality industry pages 67-100

19 Gurvinder Kaur Gurcharan Sing(2008)h Malaysian graduates' employability skills Vol. 4, No. 1, pages 90-65

.

20 Kevin Cowden Stuartall , Doctor Dely Euivt and Jon Lawin , Glasgrow (2011 Employers perception of the employability skills of new graduate pages 90-127

21 Richard Curtain, Curtain Consulting, Melbourne(2001) Promoting youth employment through information and communication technologies ICT pages 175-195

22 Salina Daud 1*, Nurazariah Abidin 1, Noraina Mazuin Sapuan 1 Jagatheesan Rajudurai (2011))Efficient human resource deployment technique in higher education: a standpoint from Malaysia page 32-90

23 Sharyn Rundle – Thiele Griffith university, Rebekah Bennett, Susan Dann (2001) The successful preparation and development of future marketing Professionals : a recommended methodological framework, 7:pp. 27-35

24 Sualiman Yassin University malaaysia Terenganmy ,Fauzian Abu HasmiUniversity Malaysia Terangenic ,Wan Amin Nair Armoudin(2008) Implementation of generic skills in the curriculum pages 22 -39

25 Susima Samudrika Weligamage Lecturer, Department of Accountancy, University of Kelaniya, Sri Lanka. (2010) Graduates Employability Skills: Evidence from Literature Review pages 60-70

27 Tazeen Fasih (2008) Linking Education Policy to Labor Market Outcomes pages 5-10

28 Walter H. Edling ,Ruth M. Loring - Center for Occupational Research and Development (2007) Education and Work: Designing Integrated Curricula Strategies for Integrating Academic ,Occupational, and Employability Standards pages 90-100

29 Yorke, Mantz and Knight, Peter (2006). Curricula for economic and social gain. Higher Education, 51(4), pp. 565–588.